

MAGNIFICAT

My soul proclaims the gréatness of the Lórd, and my spirit rejoices in Gód my Sáviór,
for he has looked upon his handmaid in her lowliness; † for behold, from this day fórdward, all generations will cáll me bléssed.

For the Almighty has done gréat things for mé,
and hóly is his náme.

His mercy is from áge to áge
for thóse who féar him.

He has made known the stréngth of his árm,
and has scattered the proud in their concéit of héart.

He has cast down the míghty from their thrónes
and has exalted thóse who are lówly.

He has filled the húngry with good thíngs,
and has sent the rích away émpy.

He has helped his sérvant Ísrael,
mindful óf his mércy,

even as he prómised to our fáthers,
to Abraham and his descéndants *for*éver.

Glory to the Fáther, and to the Són,
and to the Hóly Spírit:

as it was in the begínning, is nów,
and will be for éver. Amén.

tr. Behold, the name of the Lord comes from afar, and his glory fills the world.

Mag. ABC Ig

E

cce nomen Dómi-ni ve- nit de longínquo, et clá-ri-tas e-jus replet orbem terrárum.